

Why Games?

- Playing games encourages critical thinking and problem-solving skills (higher-order thinking)
- Games encourage child to think ahead.
- Games develop familiarity with numbers as well as fluency with numbers.
- Games provide a way to interact with students, a way to get to know them and how they think.
- Prescribed games provide the practice students need to understand various number relationships
- Games are engaging and fun.
- Games give you a chance to assess your students

